The volumes not included in the above list are not available in FOD.

It will be noted that certain price lists carry a suffix entry "A" designation and others carry several volumes. Accordingly, the total number of price lists of which the volume is over 58.

Each price list contains the product symbols listed in the Unified Price List (see FOD Report 7-4345); an introduction; a table of contents; and columns including designation of product or of repair work, and one to five price categories.

The introduction consists of two parts. The first part, which is identical in all price lists, states, "From the effective date of Decree 603, 100, 1951 (C. T. M. R., published in the 1 January 1951 issue of Tervegyszaki Ertesito), only the prices included in the present price list are valid in the wholesale and retail trade." This part also states that no additional charges may be made by the sellers. The latter provision implies that turnover taxes are included in all prices. The second part varies in content according to the products listed. This part contains the definitions of the various price categories, and provisions on surcharges for special processing, discounts, guarantees, shipping costs, etc.

Price Categories

The definitions of the price categories, arranged below, are uniform throughout the series and throw some light on the price policy of Hungarian economic management. The price categories are:

1. Import prices, which cover products imported from abroad, include customs duties, and apply to sales made by the importing foreign trade enterprise to authorized domestic distributors.

2. Producers' investment prices, which are not specifically defined. However, these prices are listed only for such types of capital goods, such as tools and equipment, which are sold to the state. They are listed in the price list only if they are sold to the state without further processing. Certain exceptions may be noted, however. For example, for tools and equipment, such as Air Tools and Parts, producers' investment prices are given only for complete tools, but for price categories (producers' investment, producers' price, wholesale, and retail) are listed for tools and parts.

CONFIDENTIAL

CONFIDENTIAL

3. Producers' gross and wholesale prices, applicable to sales by manufacturers to wholesalers and by the latter to retail stores, respectively. Both price categories are f.o.b. seller's warehouse, exclusive of packing materials and containers. In general, consumers who conclude quarterly purchase contracts with a wholesale enterprise are also entitled to wholesale prices. Wholesale prices are, with certain exceptions, 6-7 percent higher than producers' gross prices.

4. Retail prices, which apply to sales by retailers to consumers, f.o.b. retail store, exclusive of packing material and containers. These prices are, with certain exceptions, 6-8 percent higher than wholesale prices.

The exceptions noted under paragraphs 3 and 4, above, are scattered throughout the series under review. The following examples are given by way of illustration:

1. In No 144, wholesale prices for cement and lime products are 20-40 percent higher than producers' gross prices, and retail prices are 500-700 percent higher than wholesale prices.

2. In No 150, the margin between producers' gross and wholesale prices for all varieties of wrapping paper is approximately 35 percent, and the corresponding margin between wholesale and retail prices is approximately 17 percent.

No attempt has been made to make a systematic comparison between the weighted average wholesale prices as of 1 July 1949 () and the wholesale prices listed in the series under review. However, spot checking shows an increase in prices for all items selected at random.

Brief summaries of the 37 price lists under review follow.
